OUTTENBURG RACE TRACE, Dec. 29 .- The card at Guttenburg showed a slight faling off in the size of its fields. The quality of the entries in the various events was excellent, and some good sport was expected.

The weather was not the best for good racing, for a southeaster howled through the stand in mournful tones. Now and then a bit of sunshine emityened things a bit.

The track was still very heavy and holding. The first race was a dash of seven furlongs. Congress amused the crowd by running twice around the track. He was then with-

He had a very dim, groggy recollection of hearing some one say. "All Lands out; put out those lights." Then the witness tried to get out, and while trying to find the starts he heard what sounded like a pistol shot. He didn't know how he got home, but when he did he slept two days.

He admitted that he and Jehkins called on Selling at Jefferson Market Prison while both were intoxicated, but he didn't know what he and Jenkins had said to Seiling.

Selling claims that both Jenkins and Hardy told him they had seen him assaulted by Wogan and would stand by him.

Officer Hughes, who arrested Selling, detailed the circumstances of the arrest. He showed the pistol that killed Wogan, an "Excel," self-cocking, 38-calibre revolver, and said that selling gave it up promptly and offered ho resistance.

The policeman said further:
"I asked selling if he had been doing up mybody and he said, 'Yes, if I hadn't, I guess
